PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Everyone in the Bay area who is interested in conservation must have felt a real sadness at the death of Congressman Clem Miller. Although he was not alone in working to get the Point Reyes Seashore into the National Park System, to him, probably more than any one person, we owe the greatest debt of gratitude. It's right that he should be buried where all who visit the park will be reminded of him and his mission fulfilled.

As you know by now, the Golden Gate and Marin Audubon Societies made the $90,000 down payment on Audubon Canyon Ranch. It was nip and tuck during the last week before the deadline, but the response was so wonderful that we actually had money to spare—money that gives us a start on the balance.

The Golden Gate Audubon Society joined the Audubon Canyon Ranch project at the invitation of the Marin Audubon Society, whose vision and determination served as our inspiration. Having been inspired, however, our membership has acted as the full partner we are. Title to the ranch is now under the control of our two societies. Marin will carry out the purchase agreement for 375 acres. Golden Gate will lease and within ten years be deeded the other 132 acres of the ranch. Eventually, all of the land will be turned over to Audubon Canyon Ranch, Inc., which is the joint corporation of our two societies.

We've cleared the highest hurdle of $90,000. We must now set our sights on the annual payment of $24,750 for the next ten years. To those members who have helped so much, many thanks. To those who have so far been unable to spare a minute or a dollar to this hard effort, one more reminder. It's the percentage, not the amount, that shows we're united in saving Audubon Canyon Ranch.

AILEEN PIERSON, President

POINT REYES PENINSULA FIELD TRIP—October 20. Thanks to the keen eyes of members of the group, several interesting birds were seen on this trip. At the RCA Communications Station a Tropical Kingbird, located on a scouting trip several days before, was very accommodating and allowed itself to be observed at close range by all present. Meanwhile, Barn Owls were flying overhead and Golden and Ruby-crowned Kinglets and Hutton's Vireos could be seen in the long row of trees leading to the Station headquarters. At McClure's Ranch, a pair of Harlequin Ducks paddling about and diving in the heavy surf close to the rocky shore, gave everyone a close view of themselves. Seven or eight Common Scoters were seen in the breakers along the beach. Passing through a rocky defile the group came upon at least twelve Black Oystercatchers with one or two Black Turnstones—a reversal of the usual situation.—Alice Williams, Co-leader and Historian.

OBSERVATION—On November 13 and 14, a White-throated Sparrow came to our feeder in the Oakland hills. Last year the Oakland Christmas count listed two of them.—Vi Homem.

CONTRIBUTION TO CONDOR FUND—Our treasurer, Miss Erline Hevel, has received a letter of thanks for our Society's contribution of $200 to the Condor Fund, from Carl W. Buchholtz, President, National Audubon Society.

SUMMARY—22ND ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON NATURAL RESOURCES

Auspices, California Conservation Council, October 25-27, 1962.

This three day Conservation Conference on the magnifieent Fresno State College campus brought together local conservation leaders, organization spokesmen and a variety of governmental agency representatives of many levels. William Warne of the State Natural Resources Agency, Charles DeTurk of the Department of Parks and Reereation, and Henry Caulfield of the U. S. Department of the Interior were headliners among the State and federal spokesmen; while such busy persons as David Brower of the Sierra Club, Dr. Herbert Gwinn of the State Department of Education, Assistant Superintendent, Granville Liles, and Chief Naturalist, Doug Hubbard of Yosemite, William Penn Mott, Jr., of East Bay Regional Parks and our own Dr. Eric Reynolds found time to attend and address the assemblage. Mel Scott and Dan Luten came from the University at Berkeley to speak for Saving Open Spaces. Your Conservation chairman and your Education Chairman, Mrs. Janet Nickelsburg, were privileged to attend the entire conference.

It was a refreshing surprise to have presented to the conference two prominent Boy Scouts, the Enright brothers from San Jose, who have made state and national marks in conservation work. They with Mrs. Nickelsburg were summoned to broadcast from a Fresno radio station. Otherwise youth and youth leadership participation left much to be desired, even from local students and faculty. This situation seemed to substantiate the conclusion of several speakers: that California schools—with a few exceptions—have failed to embrace and to vigorously push Conservation teaching as a must.

The various panel and chart exhibits were both informative and delightful to study. Another big treat was the showing of the film, Audubon Canyon Ranch by Laurel Reynolds and Mindy Willis. —PAUL COVEL, Conservation Chairman

NOTE—Local Audubon members who spend considerable time birding around San Francisco South Bay have been asked by the Department of Fish & Game to report during the coming year on numbers and species of waterfowl and shorebirds. Single, mimeographed blue sheets containing report columns and a numbered grid map to indicate the exact areas of reports may be picked up at the National Audubon Conservation Center, 2426 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, or at the Region Three Office of Fish & Game, Room 3000, Ferry Building, San Francisco 11. These contributions from afield may help to save some of our marsh and tideland areas by furnishing specific facts and figures on the importance of these areas to waterfowl and other natural resources.
